I watched and waited for a quarter of a century remembering dreams and hopes from years back. I looked around at the collapsing world and my hopes were replaced by fear and instinct of survival as the world turned to turmoil. Mine had already collapsed and I had started writing warning everyone over a year ago. I watched families and friends losing everything and it became obvious that we do not have much left to lose. I listened to the complaints of the people and saw them as desires that could be fulfilled. I looked at problems I had seen arise over the years and sought out solutions that would be best for everyone and I wrote to officials to implement actions.

My writings had my true heart and good intentions for everyone put into them. I did not discriminate and I presented my best even though I was confused and scared. I outlined my plans from the beginning and submitted them to official authoritative representatives stating my intentions and requirements for me to be taken care of, as well. I have to bring myself up in order to help bring up the rest of the world. Economies worsened to the point of collapse that any of us would never want to have seen. I did not give up and kept bothering everyone until they were so mad at me that they probably turned blue in the face.

I was very upset and mad from the importance my plans being ignored and seen as an option when I first proposed Build It Here, Ship It There; Anywhere. Once I proposed it to the official authorities my anger went away. I could see it made sense and had become priority as the beginning steps of the solutions that would save me, Detroit and the world began to grind their gears. These plans were not just for us, but for everyone in the world. They were for both the big and the small and also for all of those in between.

I looked at all of the displaced people in the world and realized the plans they used in the last two decades separated families and friends. My plans for this decade are to bring them back together and so far we have had tremendous success. The problem is that everyone has forgotten about me and my plans for the rest of the decade. Now it is time to give proper recognition and give credits due to me. It seems that I have been made to have to rise above it all and be neutral; everyone else must do the same.

The campaigns have left unwanted slanderous pamphlets bashing each other instead of stating true intentions. If you can't state what you plan on doing with these funds I worked so hard at to help create, then move aside and let someone in with good intentions that can communicate with everyone. My plans started over two and a half decades ago. I stated my true intentions from the beginning and they are what we need. If you can't help see them through, then step aside. We can't afford a downslide right now. Otherwise it would be best to keep our current Governor. She did physically throw herself in front of the companies leaving. She offered great alternatives and even after they still left she threw herself to the people and caught their tears on her shoulders. She tried to create employment incentives and programs immediately because she knew how detrimental the affects were going to be on the people here and throughout the whole world. I would rather her have some control over these funds than others that won't state their intentions or clarify their interests. I know what she is capable of doing - giving more than one hundred percent to help the people.

Now because of everyone's greed I am left with the weight of the world on my shoulders. I offered to thump on all of your upper traps when you were distressed, now mine are overloaded and very sore and need healing. That is a lot of karma for me to be holding onto and I have results that I am attached to seeing. I would really appreciate a little stress relief.

This is why I am insisting that I take eighty percent controlling interest of the profits from Build It Here, Ship It There; Anywhere for this year and will sell this back to the owners of each company for the commitment and coverage of the cost of planting trees, flowers and trumpet lilies and any taxes accumulated within. For some companies part of the commitment may be to update/demolish/rebuild facilities, cut cost to customers, demolish old housing, moving people from unnatural disaster areas and moving them into new houses that are sitting and losing value, or other needed projects, but trees, trumpet lilies and flowers with high pollen content must still be planted everywhere.

If you look at everyone that has profited from and will profit from my promotions you will see it goes all the way from the banks/lenders, insurance companies, utility companies, vehicle industries, governments, etc. . . I could go on and on, but you know who you all are and you know it went world-wide. If you all took a shovel in one hand and a calculator in the other like I told everyone to do at the beginning of this new decade then you will see me taking controlling interest of these profits as what is right and fair to everyone and place it as a priority that is necessary and should be dealt with immediately. I am actually the only one that can legally do this because they are my promotions. I have not seen anyone's records in actuality, but I can feel my profits and have to make sure they are used properly. See, it's a good thing I'm single, or a man may have taken over my true hearted intentioned interest and stuck it into a deep dark hole filled with poisonous snakes. It is a good thing that my plans, goals and endeavors to clean up our past mistakes are so big that no one man can handle them and most are scared of me and run the other way. You all score this time!

It would be nice to offer help with some of my other projects as well, especially getting the Temple Of Understanding built so none of us, our children or their children have to witness annihilation of this world. The Palace of Gold needs structure support pillars positioned to hold that hill in place. My Energy Bridge, Healing Center, Learning Center, Farmer's Market, Planetarium, Retirement Condos, and Vedic Village Estates all need sponsors for competitions for demolition and construction of. These need to be started immediately and are some of the greatest opportunities to help this world. Does this sound fair for everyone? If you are thinking of other options just remember this is all or nothing. I take control of all for a split second or we all lose and end up with nothing. Go ahead and check your paperwork; you will see I am thinking of everyone's best interest involved and am only trying to protect everyone equally from their own self-mutilation from within. I will be waiting to hear from President Obama and waiting to sign off my eighty controlling interest of profits earned from my proposal per request of the owners.

Then I have to keep remembering about the all or nothing. As I wrote to a few leaders telling of my declaration of eighty percent controlling interest in associated profits, earnings, investments, interests, etc. . . I forgot again about number one – me! So, I am claiming for myself just one point zero eight percent (1.08%) for my salary for the year that should be a combined contributions of all of those profiting from my promotions. There should also be a percentage given back from those who profit from my promotions in the future. That will be enough for me and I am sure you will all agree I deserve way more. I am not so greedy, so this should be fair enough.

I thought by now with all of my great endeavors that I would have enough to save some twins/triplets/quads in China and be able to adopt them. Everyone just got greedy with the funds that God so carefully allotted to me again. My babies from this decade need to be saved. I did not premeditate any of the controlling interest issues. I have as a mother in my heart had the strongest desires and yearnings to save the children of this world. The success of my profits may be due to these strong desires that foster love for the life of this universe. Please help save the children.

Now as I write everything out, I am remembering everyone I have been dealing with and how they will only accept all or nothing. I must have learned it from them. So, under my International Water Way Enterprises LLC, it is only appropriate to take the remaining eight-teen point two percent (18.02%) to make sure some of my projects get done and make sure our messes and mistakes are buried from the past.

It would be nice if everyone would step up and take on a sector to make it more bearable and less stressful to me.

I suggest that this account be handled immediately before unwanted results settle in. I've already heard about the big bonuses everyone is making off from my proposal let alone the profits. I'll take a blue Viper and a blue F-Series with a Collins engine in it and the rest can be in cash. (Well, who wouldn't want that?) You all have my account numbers, so I give you my permission for direct deposit. As time goes on the trickle-down effect is adding to it all big time and the price is going up. How about if I charge cut throat interest rates and fees like you all did to me?

You are all right. It's been worth a lot more than a hundred percent. I forgot the philosophy; sorry, it's been a long time. We can go to two hundred percent today then. One hundred percent is not righteous justification. Two hundred isn't either.

How about three hundred percent? Maybe move the decimal a place over; that might be closer to being realistic. You know I love to quad on anything; four hundred percent is getting a little closer. Let's move the decimal point over and make it four thousand percent. Is that closer? Still not close enough? I guess it's like I was taught from the beginning – just ask for five to keep things alive and then quickly move it to ten so that those problems don't occur again. Is five thousand percent close enough? Okay, let's just put it to ten to make sure nothing like this ever happens again. Man, I really made a smooth move, didn't I? This is like the fifth time in my life if you include investments and interests. I can't let my hard earned trillions go again to drugs, sex, and rocks that don't roll.

I see the truth of where it has ended up at. I was taught by the best to always remember the number one rule in business and spirituality – The sky's the limit!

This could have been different and not so fair. It's a good thing I was going through fathers with hearts. One could have taken all. I even wrote referring to some as boss man in hopes of being worthy for employment or a position on a spiritual team, but a single inspiring Kare Ritter woman that all of a sudden states "I'm back" after fifteen years just wasn't very impressive. No, I am not a spy. I have not been in any of your offices or files. I really don't even know much about stocks. I do know that I presented my best with good intentions and I can see the results even if you have not yet. It came from my heart; I can feel every more. It's the best I could give; It's for all of you!

It's better it's just me so that I can make sure everything runs fairly. This is just truly an act of God. I guess He wants to see fairness, too. Maybe He doesn't like seeing so many living beneath slavery standards with barely a chance for survival. That is the reality of what is true when we work and can't afford to live.

Please have everything compiled on paper in simple terms that I can understand. I know that just because someone has a lawyer write something it doesn't necessarily mean it is true. Don't try to pull any wool over my eyes. I can see past the crap on the stacks. Don't try to make me feel guilty either. I am the best that you all have been blessed with in a long time. Wait until you see what else I have presented to the leaders for this most powerful decade. This was just a little taste of what can be. We will all have to meet together and I will go over the paperwork and sign off to the owners of the companies or to the authoritative representatives of public sectors. Time is of the essence; use it wisely. I will be waiting. . .

I have written many ideas and submitted proposals for this decade; all of which are in the hands of the leaders of this world and may be disclosed by them only when needed. Please forgive me if I have offended anyone by getting their wheels moving forward again. The following are a few inserts of letters I wrote bothering politicians and/or business owners this year:

1-11-2010

The reasoning I have for naming anything after anyone is to mark an era in history. For that area it is how the east has met the west. Developers around here have built little communities and named everything after their family members. I took that concept and put it in place in my plans for the area around the Fisher Mansion. It is only right to show respect for the ones that have contributed so much to our lives. When people see the names of things named after people and look back they will find the history of the past and learn what has been accomplished through time. This project is big enough where a lot of people can be given tribute to. I even have plans for The Waterfall of Smiles to go between the properties of where the parking lot is and where the beginning of the new development will be. This is a means so that even small contributors and friends will be honored.

You want my new promotion for the beginning of this decade? Build it here; Ship it there; Anywhere! How's that? Use the resources that God has made readily available to us now.

2-2-2010

The bridge and planetarium will help clean up a big area that we would not otherwise be able to accomplish so quickly. We can push it through as first priority to get funding because of Homeland Security. It's been needed for a long time.

It should be easy to convince companies to stay put for right now because of safety and to take advantage of our highly skilled and qualified workforce that are already capable of producing quality products here in the United States. These vehicles deliver our needs and transport us everywhere; they are part of our security.

It is important to think global but it is even more important in these harsh times to think economical. It only makes sense to use the skilled labor we already have here, along with using our buildings and filling our trucks that drive on our roads. This is a type of economical stimulus that can have a positive impact on the United States, especially Michigan. It would be much more profitable for us right now to build it here and have incentives that help ship it there. Yes, we should give awards when deserved, but at the same time we must always think of the future and try to lay out ground work for what is to come. I know if we put our heads together we can rise up and create a brighter future.

At the beginning of this new decade I told my new great promotion was to build it here; ship it there; anywhere. I explained how dangerous some of those places are right now and we already have qualified skilled labor, the buildings, the vehicles and all of the resources right here. We just need to be thankful for what God has given us and use what is already available. I don't know if I made the right choice in saying this. No one is ever satisfied. More production means more noise and pollution. Oh well, the trucks are rolling like crazy for now. All it took was a little voice from below and you guys intervening with an incentive. The Gap Commuter should be happy for that. The bridge is loaded with trucks. Now I see that the new EnergyBridge is top priority and needs to reach stages of implementation fast. That old bridge is going to be down for repairs for awhile. They do not need any more messes on that side of town. The new bridge will allow a new highway for the north side of Detroit that has been needed for years. I proposed for it to go over the park at the end of Alter. There has been a large increase in house fires in that area over the last six months, so I declare it also as a national disaster. There is enough room there for the traffic and tolls as we redevelop the community. There is also enough room as to where the pollution can rise and not have such a big impact on the surrounding communities. This construction will help have equipment and other resources available in the area for the other community projects. I truly believe in intervening when it comes to being more efficient.

May this New Decade give you a shovel in one hand and a calculator in the other hand!

I am looking forward to meeting with you all!

Sincerely Yours,

Lala
